The Women's Legal Bureau and HASIK have teamed up to form a project known as COMBAT-VAW. The project aims to create attitudinal changes in the rural villages towards violence against women and girls. To empower women by providing them with the skills and knowledge about their rights not to be abused. And to develop a group of male and female educators and advocates in each rural community. In the projects first year women formed three community crisis centers and legal advocates provided the women with counseling.

At CPRC we began the Children's Advocacy Center in 1981 with the purpose of promoting children's rights under the UN Convention of the Rights of the Child. CPRC runs 3 rehabilitation homes as well as the center from children and young people rescued from abuse, violence and trafficking. In the homes and at the center our staff employ a multi-disciplinary approach to addressing the needs of exploited and abused children. CPRC is divided into four sections. The Prevention team, the Protection team, if abuse has occurred the protection team then moves the child to the Assessment Units Gate House If necessary the can then move to one of our rehabilitation shelters.

Crisis Support Program (SWAN)
In response to requests and with the assistance of the Foundation for the People of Burma, and the people in thailand we began by running a Woman's Crisis Centre In Chiang Mai. In late 2003 we set up an additional Women's Crisis Centre in the Fang District Burma. We also organized a series of workshops along the Shan - Thai border covering gender issues, violence against women & basic counselling and how to deal with trafficking.

CEFACOM is a civil society organization in Vietnam with the purpose of promoting the implementation of children's rights. Built and developed from the CSAP program in 2001, We have expanded our activities to include child abuse and family violence prevention. CEFACOM staff perform some of their work in the class rooms, where they provide security training for vulnerable children. CEFACOM also established a child sexual abuse reporting system which helped raise the rate of disclosure. After the disclosure we provide case management including social and legal support, counseling for victims face to face, by telephone or via the chat room on the internet.
