The Chapmion Project is an innovative five year initiative to increase men's involvement in parenting. Because of power imbalances in sexual relationships, women are particularly vulnerable to HIV infection and Gender Based Violence. To lessen this impact on women and to improve behaviors of men and their roles in society the Chapmion project offers a programme to reduce men's high risk behaviors and to promote fidelity. We work to reduce Gender Based Violence and to increase men's participation in health services.
